History of Memorial Plaza

The Memorial Plaza began with a vision by local Veterans who dreamed of a quiet place on this health care campus to reflect on the gift of great men and women who served in our military.

In 2001, a group of local Veterans, one of them, Mr. Joe Fraccola, a World War II Veteran, raised more than $400,000 in donations and dedicated more than 18,700 hours to making the dream come true.

The theme of the plaza is "Coming Home" as symbolized by the bronze statue of a medic returning home with his young daughter on his shoulders.

Since the dedication of the Memorial Plaza on May 25, 2006 which was designed to hold 8,000 bricks, a total of 2,370 bricks have been placed to honor those who served.

Coming Home

The Memorial Plaza is situated in front of the main entrance to the outpatient clinic at VA Sacramento Medical Center, located at 10535 Hospital Way, Mather California.

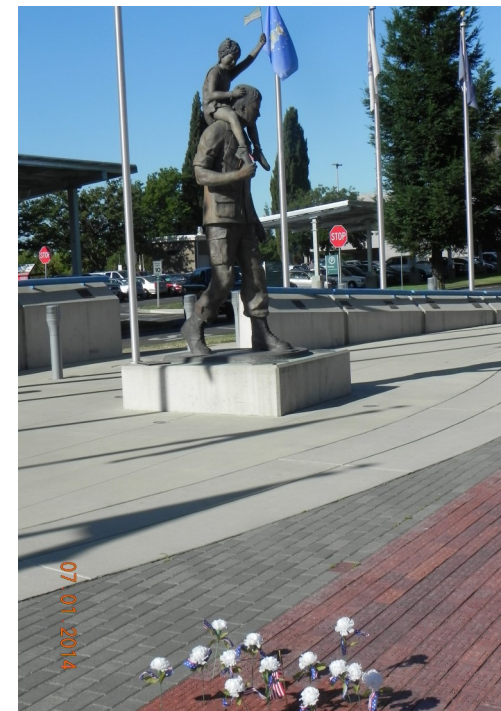

In the center of the plaza stands a 15 foot bronze statue of a medic being reunited with his daughter who is waving an American flag, symbolic of the memorial theme "Coming Home."

The beautifully landscaped and lighted plaza is flanked by the flags representing the Veterans Affairs, California, United States Army, Marine Corp, Navy, Air Force, Coast Guard and Merchant Marine.

The plaza is encased by cantilevered solid walls bearing engraved plaques recognizing major donors and corporate sponsors.

There are plaques describing the history of Mather Field, a "Coming Home" tribute, the names of individuals, organizations and contractors who donated time, labor and materials to develop and build the plaza.
